

Amendment to the Abstract of the Disclosure

Please replace the Abstract currently of record in the application by the Abstract presented hereinbelow.

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A browser program is provided which causes the device to carry out the following method steps. Initially, data received as a page comprising page data and mark up language tags and identifying the mark up language tags is examined. Then, the identified tags to derive instruction are analyzed and a visual output derived from the page data based on instructions derived from the identified tags is generated. These are followed by further operations based on instructions derived from the identified tags and not derived from the page data.